

Reading-Informational Text

Discus

Discus is South Carolina's virtual library. This site has links to thousands of primary and secondary documents.

Factinista

Factinista is a website that curates and organizes articles about a wide variety of topics. The site has hand-picked articles from reputable news sources, ensuring reliability and rigor. Here is a helpful link about how the site works:

<https://www.facebook.com/factinista.news/videos/1773972696184188/>

Information is Beautiful

Information is Beautiful houses visualizations, infographics and diagrams of facts, data, ideas, subjects, issues, statistics, and questions – all with the minimum of words.

Kelly Gallagher's Article of the Week

Kelly Gallagher's site contains links to all of the articles he has assigned to his students during the current school year. It also contains practical advice about teaching informational text.

NewsELA

NewsELA has informational texts that can be used as leveled texts for students.

New York Times Learning Network

New York Times The Learning Network contains lesson plans and links to current events.